DINNER MEETING ANNOUNCEMENT

"The British Mission at Los Alamos"

Speaker: Alan B. Carr, LANL Historian

Abstract: In less than three years, the Manhattan Project successfully produced two entirely different types of nuclear weapons which were used to help bring World War II to an abrupt and victorious conclusion. The Manhattan Project employed nearly 130,000 workers at its height, at installations all over the country. But it was not merely a national effort; it was truly an international scientific endeavor. Some of the Manhattan Project's key players were from European countries. Most notably, Great Britain sent approximately two dozen of the world's best scientists to Los Alamos. The group included Nobel Laureates, knights, and even one of the most notorious atomic spies of the 20th Century. "The British Mission at Los Alamos" tells the story of these scientists and the disproportionately high value of their contributions at Site Y.

Biography: Alan B. Carr currently serves as an historian for Los Alamos National Laboratory. During his tenure as Laboratory Historian, Carr has produced several publications pertaining to the Manhattan Project, early nuclear weapons design, and nuclear testing history. He has also lectured for numerous professional organizations and been featured as a guest on many local, national and international radio and television programs. Before coming to Los Alamos, Carr completed his graduate studies at Texas Tech University in Lubbock. His thesis, The Long Road to Kursk: The Development, Abandonment, and Relearning of Soviet Military Strategy, traces Soviet operational art from its roots in the early 1920s through its employment in the first half of World War II.

We strongly encourage you to sign up and pay for this event by 8 Sep using the ANS Trinity PayPal payment account. Visit the "Calendar" page of our web site (<http://local.ans.org/trinity/calendar.html>) and select the appropriate payment button. You may use any credit card and do NOT need to have your own PayPal account to make the payment.

RSVP: If you do not use on-line payment, please RSVP no later than 8 Sep to:

Markku Koskelo: mkoskelo@aquilagroup.com (505-338-8083) or

Kimberly Clark: kclark@lanl.gov (505-667-5301)

RSVP must be received by 8 Sep in order to give final numbers to the caterers. While we strongly encourage everyone to use on-line payment to sign up and prepay, an RSVP is a commitment to attend/pay at the door. We cannot afford "no shows" after the final count is given to the caterers, as the Section is partially subsidizing the cost of this event. If you cancel after 8 Sep, you will still be responsible for paying.
